IFMSA was present during the World Health Summit in Berlin, Germany. This meeting isn't « per se » an advocacy meeting but more a networking meeting. It is also important to underline that this is more an event dedicated to academia.

The conference was focused on 4 key main areas :

- Education and Leadership
- Evidence to Policy
- Research and Innovation
- Global Health for Development

During the different sessions, different IFMSA members manage to network with the different speakers and take notes for future events and sessions to be develop by the Federation. It was also noticed the lack of interconnection between academia and the political discussions that are happening at the moment in the global stage.

IFMSA was invited to do a statement during the opening ceremony. The « blind standardization and industrialization » of education was mentioned as well the harsh conditions of work and studying of medical students and doctors. It was also underlined the importance to bring humanity to healthcare.

IFMSA presence in this meeting must be reflected and well planned. IFMSA was also involved in the planning of a health youth workshop, in collaboration with bvmd Germany, EMSA-Europe and UAEM. However, IFMSA should reflect about its involvement in the preparation of a health youth workshop before the event, if this event is hosted again next year.

Plus, on the first day, we presented IFMSA in a Youth Fair for more than 300 guests, event during which the European Youth Capital for 2016 - Varna, Bulgaria - was publicly announced.

A lot of effort will be put to continue following-up the European Youth Forum's work and IFMSA will try to put health on the European youth agenda, so IFMSA can continue increasing the quality of its advocacy at the regional and global level."

Building on an effective advocacy strategy and with the support of collaborating partners such as the WHO and the GHCA, the IFMSA delegation successfully worked to integrate the concept of health co-benefits in the ADP Updated Draft Negotiating Text, a concept that was absent in the first draft. IFMSA has also facilitated a side-event on education and capacity building and intervened in a side-event on green jobs. Furthermore, IFMSA did the opening statement on behalf of the youth at the opening session of the ADP. The delegation worked with the youth constituency of the UNFCCC to input the Ministerial Declaration on Education, resulting in a greater recognition of the role of the youth and of non-formal education, two things at the core of IFMSA activities. The Federation shall continue its work in this field so to ensure health is fully integrated in the Elements text, which will be used as the backbone of the global climate agreement, to be adopted at COP21 in Paris in 2015.

Joint Action on Health Workforce Meeting

Date : 3-5 December 2014

Location : Rome, Italy

Participants : RC Europe - Alberto Abreu da Silva (Coordinator), Stefano Guiciardi (SISM-Italy), Elizabeth Holven (NMSA-Norway), Dr. Miguel Cabral - IFMSA's SupCo

IFMSA attended the 2nd Meeting of the European Commission's Joint Action on Health Workforce in Rome, on the 4th and 5th of December. This is a Joint Action that aims to promote the planning of human resources for health, taking into account the European needs and the different countries' capacities and priorities. Nonetheless, it is an action open to other entities, such as physicians associations or, as IFMSA, non-governmental associations.

IFMSA has a position on Human Resources for Health, that relates this matter with the Universal Health Coverage principle, reason why it was so important for us to be present in this meeting. It is also closely related to the WHO Code of Practice on the International Recruitment of Health Personnel.

Three big matters that relate to our positions must be highlighted:

The fact that governments are aware of the possible brain-drainage that active recruitment might result in countries that lack healthcare services; Existence of international mechanisms that intend to avoid health inequity, but that still don't cover regional problems, such as the ones faced in Europe; Complete lack of awareness of the impact that an agreement such as TTIP (Trans-Atlantic Trade and Investment Partnership) might have on health workforce.

This last point was brought to discussion in plenary, during which IFMSA raised awareness among the members of the different governments about the potential negative impact that the TTIP might bring to healthcare access and services. This ended up being one of the most discussed topics in plenary reason."

EPHA Professional Development Programme

Date : 8-10 December 2014

Location : Brussels, Belgium

Participants : RC Europe - Alberto
Abreu da Silva (Coordinator), Marie
Hauerslev

Between the 8th and the 10th of December the IFMSA's Regional Coordinator for Europe, Alberto, and the European General Assistant, Marie Hauerslev, attended the European Public Health Alliance (EPHA) Professional Development Program in Brussels, Belgium. The EPHA is an European non-governmental organization that aims to be a platform in which health-related European NGOs can work together towards the improvement of health in this region and in the world. IFMSA is a member of the EPHA since 2012.

In the first day we started talking about the EPHA's Pharma4Health campaign (that IFMSA supported), which aimed to reverse the Juncker's Team (the European Commission team) decision of moving medicines and biotechnologies responsibility from the Directorate General of Health (DG SANCO) to the Enterprise one, which could have led to a lack of consciousness and awareness of the importance of these products for the access for health, at the same time the companies working on this area would have a greater lobby power. Thankfully, this campaign was quite successful, with the confirmation that medicines remain under DG SANCO's responsibility and it seems that biotechnology will remain as well.

Afterwards, OXFAM, another NGO that fights against inequality in the world, presented the "Even it up!" campaign. OXFAM works a lot on providing data that shows the economic negative side of economic extreme inequalities. They also work and access to health and education, since they believe these are the two main social pillars, which without the inequality will remain as a vicious cycle. For that, they fight for the health systems' fees removal, struggle for access to medicines, lobby against the negative side of TTIP and they inclusively build hospitals in low-income countries.

The second day tackled European media strategies; best practices when writing press releases; EU Alcohol Policy strategy; Scottish Health Action on Health Alcohol problems the Scotland

IFMSA

Minimum Unit Pricing in Scotland. This last campaign was a movement started to implement a minimum price for alcoholic beverages in Scotland, after being shown by evidence that low-income communities we're abusing on alcohol consumption due to some brands very low prices. After a lot of national struggles, they got this measure approved in Scotland and now they are trying to implement this in the EU and its member states.

In the last day, the participants discussed a lot the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP), an agreement that is being negotiated between the USA and the EU and that have a broad impact on economy and society and, consequently, on health.

European Alcohol Policy Youth Conference

Date : 10-16 December 2014

Location : Bursa, Turkey

Participants : SCOPH D -Skander Essafi

The foundation and development of the Alcohol Policy Youth Network has been observed by many IFMSA (SCOPH) officials since 2008. Now that it is gaining more positioning among its members, it is time to strengthen official partnership with this network, via National Members Organizations as well, as this network is going global having participants from the 5 regions.

The conference aimed to raise interest and empower young people in their youth organisations about prevention of alcohol related harm and alcohol policy; It was a great exchange platform and it offered to IFMSA the opportunity to gain more insight on the Alcohol field.

The conference was also very diverse, from panels presented by Public Health experts in the field of alcohol, to workshops about several themes such as alcohol advocacy, campaigning and research. The main key areas promoted during the conference were for effective alcohol policy were minimum pricing and fighting against minimum pricing. Finally, it provided the opportunity for members to present their own initiative related to alcohol, public health and their organization functioning in general.

Council of Europe (CoE) Conference of INGOs

Date : 26-29 January 2015

Location : Strasbourg, France

Participants : RC Europe - Alberto Abreu da Silva

This conference main purpose was to ensure and to debate the accessibility and transversal presence of human rights in society, as well as to promote and develop democracy and active citizenship in Europe by fostering the work of INGOs.

During these days, a lot of issues were debated, such as the involvement of INGOs on islamophobia, in light of the recent events that took place in France; the threats posed by climate and the necessity for engagement from European institutions; and the social crisis in Ukraine among many others.

IFMSA had the chance to do an intervention during the presentation of the Human Rights Committee's Working Groups Reports, raising awareness for the need of increasing the health-based approach in the Conference itself. Health in Europe is currently challenged many several situations affecting the Region, such as:

1. The advent of the TTIP and the potential negative impact on access to health;
2. The health work force migration demographics and its impact on access to healthcare in many European countries;
3. The need for humanization of healthcare an investment on primary care in order to improve the prevention of non-communicable diseases;
4. The current and future negative impacts of climate change on health issues.

In the last day the conference elected the new board of the CoE. It was also a very good opportunity to liaise with some CoE's directors as well as to present IFMSA to the new board. As follow-up, after discussing that with some board members, IFMSA will work to increase its participation within this institution, and surely more news and opportunities will come in the future.

Investment in Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR) saves lives, contribute to resilient societies, sustainable development and reduces poverty. Each US dollar invested in prevention and preparedness for disasters result in saving 5 US dollar in the cost of response.

United Nations Major Group (UN MGCY) facilitate the participation of all children and youth in the process of the Post-2015 Framework for DRR, an intergovernmental process of consultations and negotiations leading up to the 3rd UN World Conference for DRR (WCDRR). IFMSA members are through UN MGCY participating in the process and the task force is coordinated my IFMSA. The preparation process consist of regional trainings and two Preparatory Committee Meetings for the WCDRR, prior to the WCDRR taking place in Sendai, Japan, 14th - 18th March 2015. The 2nd PrepCom for WCDRR took place in Geneva, Switzerland November 17th - 18th 2014. UN MGCY invited young people from around the world to a three day workshop prior to the 2nd PrepCom. 40 young people from five different regions participated in capacity building workshops, multi-stakeholder panel discussions and preparatory UN MGCY meetings for the 2nd PrepCom. The participants created an advocacy strategy and social media strategy they deliver within the following intergovernmental meeting. The outcome was over expectations; the visibility of young peoples contributions in the 2nd PrepCom was something special and the contributions to the consultations and negotiations was recognised and resulted in discussions.

The UN MGCYs' members have had an active participation in the Post-2015 Framework for DRR since the beginning of the process. Based upon the many consultations we facilitated the participants in the 2nd PrepCom summarised the outcome of these into the following priorities, aiming to lead our actions up to the WCDRR.

Inclusion and Recognition of Children and Youth We stress the need to include children and youth in the development, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of this framework.

Implementation, Enabling Environments & Financing The financing provisions need to be strengthened and should be linked to financing for sustainable development. In addition to generating new liquidity it is imperative to create a macroeconomic environment which discourages activities that enhance underlying risk factors, for example Environmental Risk in Sovereign Credit (E-RISC), Ecological Tax Reform and Carbon Tax.

Governance & Accountability In line with our suggestion for the High Level Political Forum (HLPF) (mentioned in zero draft: 40k) this mechanism should follow the practices of AMR-UPR+ and include shadow reporting in an official capacity. Additionally, we call for the establishment of a mechanism to monitor voluntary commitments in the context of the implementation.

An All-inclusive Hazard Approach The last year conflicts resulted in more human loss than all natural disasters together. The framework would be incomplete without addressing human induced disasters, urbanisation and their underlying causes. We call for an enhanced scope that includes biological, technological, slow onset and human-induced disasters.

Accountability of all three Pillars of Sustainable Development For the DRR framework to be relevant and comprehensive in the context of the Post-2015 Development Agenda, it must take into account environmental, as well as, social and economic losses.

Social Services and Security for DRR Enhanced actions and assessments on Disaster Risk Reduction within the social service sector assure full implementation of the human right to health, education, water and sanitation."

The Prince Mahidol Award Conference (PMAC) is an annual international conference focusing on policy-related health issues of global significance. The conference is hosted by the Prince Mahidol Award Foundation, the Thai Ministry of Public Health, Mahidol University and other global partners. It is an international policy forum that Global Health Institutes, both public and private, can co-own and use for advocacy and for seeking international perspectives on important global health issues.

For the second year IFMSA hosted a Side Event at the conference, for this year's edition our side event was on Youth leadership for global health equity in the Post-2015 framework which counted with 3 speakers addressing the importance of having young people engaged in high level global health discussions and specially how the youth must be addressed in the settlement of universal health coverage policies in different countries.
